SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT

Plaintiff Jeffrey Krug (“Dr. Krug”), by his attorneys, Barry H. Dyller, Esq. and Patrick T. O’Connell, Esq., for his Second Amended Complaint, alleges as follows:

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

1. This action arises out of violations of Title IX,¹ 20 U.S.C. § 1681(a), et seq., 42 U.S.C. § 1983, Title VII, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e, et seq.,

the Pennsylvania Human Relations Act, 43 Pa.C.S.A. § 951, et seq., and the common law.

2. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1343 and 1367, and 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(3). Venue is proper in this judicial district under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b) because defendants reside in this State and this judicial district, and because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to this claim occurred in this judicial district. Venue is proper under 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(3), because the unlawful employment practices occurred in this judicial district.

2A. All conditions precedent to jurisdiction under section 706 of Title VII, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1), have occurred or been complied with. Plaintiff filed a claim of employment discrimination with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (“EEOC”), which was a dual filing with the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission (“PHRC”). More than a year has passed since plaintiff dual filed his claim with the EEOC/PHRC. The EEOC issued a Notice of Right to Sue. Plaintiff files this Amended Complaint within 90 days of such Notice of Right to Sue.

THE PARTIES

3. At all times relevant hereto, plaintiff Jeffrey Krug was a resident of Pennsylvania.

4. Defendant, Bloomsburg University (“Bloomsburg” or “the University”), is an institute of higher education under the control and operation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by virtue of its membership in the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education (“PASSHE”). Bloomsburg University has a principal address of 400 East Second Street, Bloomsburg, Columbia County, Pennsylvania 17815.

5. Upon information and belief, Bloomsburg University and PASSHE are recipients of funds from the United States government.

6. Defendant PASSHE runs fourteen of Pennsylvania’s state universities. PASSHE has a principal address of 2986 N. 2nd Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-4000.

7. At all times relevant hereto, defendant Bashar Hanna was the president of Bloomsburg University.

8. At all times relevant hereto, defendant James Krause was the Interim Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs for Bloomsburg University.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Dr. Krug

9. On June 1, 2015, Dr. Krug was appointed as the Dean of the College of Business at Bloomsburg University.

10. Dr. Krug quickly established himself as an innovator and accomplished relationship builder and fundraiser, which elevated the stature of the College of Business during his tenure.

11. In February 2016, Dr. Krug secured a gift to the University's business school which at the time was the largest single donor gift to Bloomsburg University.

12. In August 2016, Dr. Krug secured a major gift from Terry and JoAnn Zeigler to name the Zeigler College of Business. The gift was the largest donation in PASSHE's history.

13. In addition to fundraising, Dr. Krug accomplished much in a short time as Dean. He launched new MBA and certificate programs in downtown Philadelphia, rebranded the MBA program on Bloomsburg University's main campus, signed an exclusive agreement with the Pennsylvania National Guard, launched a financial literacy initiative for K-12 students, established a new Global Business Institute and Entrepreneurship Leadership Center to support new initiatives, and introduced new academic programs in supply chain management, international business, personal financial planning and professional sales.

14. Because of Dr. Krug's performance and qualifications, on September 14, 2016, Bloomsburg University's president David Soltz granted Dr. Krug tenure on the faculty at Bloomsburg University.

15. On March 13, 2017, President Soltz reappointed Dr. Krug as Dean of the Zeigler College of Business for the 2017-2018 academic year.

Defendant Dr. Bashar Hanna

16. In the fall of 2016, President Soltz announced that he would be retiring. President Soltz formally retired as of June 30, 2017.

17. In November 2016, Bloomsburg University announced a Presidential Search Committee, which subsequently conducted a search for a new president.

18. Dr. Bashar Hanna applied for the University's presidency.

19. During the pendency of Dr. Hanna's application process, faculty members at Dr. Hanna's prior employer, Delaware Valley University, sent an email to faculty and staff at Bloomsburg University. A copy of the Delaware Valley University email is attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

20. In that email, it was noted that in his prior employment as Vice President for Academic Affairs and Dean of the Faculty at Delaware Valley University, Dr. Hanna was “prejudiced and confrontational to faculty and staff, but particularly toward female faculty and focused on females that held Administrative roles.”

21. It was also noted that Dr. Hanna “routinely talk[ed] negatively about women and joke[d] about the varying lifestyles they may have chosen.”

22. The email stated that Dr. Hanna was “required to take an Anger Management course while at DVU [Delaware Valley University] after inflicting severe and long-lasting mental damage to several that he interacted with.” It was stated that “[w]hile at Temple University he was also officially reprimanded for similar behavior.”

23. The email continued by explaining violent and unprofessional behavior, and retribution against people who don’t agree with or support his positions.

24. The email also discussed Dr. Hanna’s problems at other universities at which he had been employed. Those problems included “confrontational behavior” that led Kutztown University of Pennsylvania to buy out Dr. Hanna’s remaining contract and ask him to resign.

25. In spite of all these problems, and the fact that Kutztown University of Pennsylvania is also a PASSHE university, Bloomsburg University hired Dr. Hanna as its president, effective July 1, 2017.

JANE DOE NO. 1 and JANE DOE NO. 2²

26. During the relevant time period preceding November 8, 2017 and March 21, 2018, JANE DOE NO. 2 was Dr. Krug’s administrative assistant. During the relevant time period, JANE DOE NO. 1 was President Hanna’s administrative assistant.

27. On November 8, 2017, JANE DOE NO. 1 confided to JANE DOE NO. 2 that President Hanna had subjected her to sexual harassment and advances. After she rebuffed his advances, President Hanna had retaliated against her and JANE DOE NO. 1 feared for her job.

28. On November 9, 2017 JANE DOE NO. 2 asked Dr. Krug if she and JANE DOE NO. 1 could meet with him to discuss President Hanna’s sexual harassment and other issues JANE DOE NO. 1 had uncovered while serving as President Hanna's assistant.

29. At the time JANE DOE NO. 2 first spoke with Dr. Krug, there was no sexual harassment or "Title IX" complaint made and no process had been initiated.

30. Because he had not previously dealt with any sexual harassment issue, Dr. Krug spoke, in general terms, to his father, and to his sister, who is chief of staff to the president of another university and has significant knowledge of and experience with sexual harassment matters.

31. After reviewing the University's sexual harassment policy with his sister, Dr. Krug realized that he was required to report the sexual harassment to the University's Title IX coordinator. Further, failure to report President Hanna's sexual harassment could result in legitimate termination under the policy.

32. The next day, JANE DOE NO. 1 and JANE DOE NO. 2 met with Dr. Krug. JANE DOE NO. 1 detailed President Hanna's sexual harassment toward her, including putting his arms around her and kissing her. JANE DOE NO. 1 explained that when she rebuffed his sexual advances, President Hanna immediately retaliated against her, including open hostility toward her, blocking her access to his email and speaking in a derogatory and demeaning manner toward her.

33. JANE DOE NO. 1 also told Dr. Krug about financial improprieties of which President Hanna was engaging.

34. JANE DOE NO. 1 also told Dr. Krug about President Hanna's negative attitude toward a major donor to Bloomsburg University, and his desire to return a major gift to that donor and his wife.

35. JANE DOE NO. 1 asked Dr. Krug to contact the donors referred to above and a specific trustee of the University to whom JANE DOE NO. 1 had already confided.

The November 13, 2017 Meeting with Bloomsburg University's Title IX Coordinator

36. On November 13, 2017, Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2 accompanied JANE DOE NO. 1 to the office of the University's Title IX Coordinator, Dr. Robert Wislock.

37. After hearing JANE DOE NO. 1 describe President Hanna's sexual harassment of her and retaliation against her, the University's Title IX Coordinator did not prepare a written report as required. Instead, he suggested to JANE DOE NO. 1 that she "was imagining" President Hanna's sexual advances. JANE DOE NO. 1 was sobbing when she left the meeting. JANE DOE NO. 1 then returned to President Hanna's office, where she felt emotionally and physically threatened.

38. On November 15, 2017, JANE DOE NO. 1 returned to the Title IX office. The Title IX Coordinator again downplayed JANE DOE NO. 1's expressed concerns. The Title IX Coordinator even laughed when JANE DOE NO. 1 expressed her fear that she would be terminated.

The Beginning of the Retaliation Against Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2

39. The same week that Dr. Krug accompanied JANE DOE NO. 1 to the Title IX office, retaliation against him began. An employee who defendant Krause had recently placed as a temporary assistant to Dr. Krug used a master key to enter Dr. Krug's office. Upon finding Dr. Krug in his office, she quickly turned around and left without comment.

40. JANE DOE NO. 2 and two other assistants to Dr. Krug reported that their drawers had been rummaged through.

41. JANE DOE NO. 2 was on her computer and watched her emails changing from "unread" to "read" right before her eyes.

42. On November 20, 2017 Dr. Krug discovered that his computer had been tampered with and his desk drawer had been rummaged through.

Dr. Krug immediately called University police, who came to his office to view his computer and drawers. A formal report was subsequently filed with University police. As a result of these events, Dr. Krug's staff feared continued retaliation by defendant Krause and his staff, and believed that their jobs were threatened.

43. The following week, PASSHE attorneys met with JANE DOE NO. 1 at Panera Bread in Bloomsburg, supposedly about her Title IX complaint. JANE DOE NO. 2 accompanied JANE DOE NO. 1 to the interview to act as her advisor but was told by Cathleen McCormack, one of the two PASSHE attorneys present, that she would not be permitted to attend the interview and should leave. Therefore, JANE DOE NO. 1 spoke with the two attorneys without anyone else present.

44. Instead of focusing on the sexual harassment of JANE DOE NO. 1 by President Hanna that she had reported, the attorneys focused their interview on JANE DOE NO. 1's interactions with Dr. Krug.

45. When Dr. Krug was interviewed by the attorneys two weeks later, the attorneys likewise showed little interest in JANE DOE NO. 1's complaint and focused again on Dr. Krug's involvement.

46. Because JANE DOE NO. 2 witnessed her emails being read by someone accessing her computer off-site, and Dr. Krug had reported to University police that someone had accessed his computer and rummaged through his office drawers, Dr. Krug suspected that his emails were also being read. Dr. Krug therefore asked the PASSHE attorneys not to communicate with him through his University email. Nonetheless, the PASSHE attorneys ignored that request and contacted Dr. Krug by University email shortly thereafter, revealing significant detail of their conversation with Dr. Krug from their interview in the email, thereby subjecting Dr. Krug to further retaliation.

Defendant Krause's Retaliation

47. Shortly after JANE DOE NO. 1 made her Title IX complaint, defendant Krause began a campaign of retaliation against Dr. Krug.

48. Krause began rejecting Dr. Krug's business travel.

49. Krause started delaying reimbursement of Dr. Krug's business expenses.

50. Krause demanded that Dr. Krug attend meetings that other deans were not required to attend.

51. This retaliation made it more difficult for Dr. Krug to be effective in his role as Dean, and delayed implementation of strategic initiatives.

52. This retaliation also caused financial hardship for Dr. Krug and his family, as Dr. Krug had difficulty obtaining routine reimbursement for business activities.

Retaliation by Creating False Rumors

53. On January 4, 2018, Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2 learned that the administrative assistants to President Hanna and Interim Provost Krause were spreading rumors that Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2 were engaged in a sexual relationship. A staff member who Krause had installed in the office next to Dr. Krug also joked that staff had made comments that Dr. Krug was also involved in a sexual relationship with her.

54. There was no sexual relationship between Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2. There was also no sexual relationship between Dr. Krug and his “assistant.”

Dr. Krug’s and JANE DOE NO. 2’s Title IX Complaints

55. The next day, January 5, 2018, Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2 went to the Title IX Coordinator to make their own Title IX complaints.

56. The complaints focused on the false rumors of a sexual affair being spread by the administrative assistants to President Hanna and Interim Provost Krause.

57. The Title IX Coordinator eventually took the complaints, but exhibited obvious reluctance to do so because, upon information and belief, the persons likely behind the false rumors were the president and interim provost of the University.

58. Instead of offering to file a complaint, the Title IX coordinator, Robert Wislock, interrogated Dr. Krug about his relationships with people across campus. Dr. Krug objected to this tactic, which he viewed as threatening. He expressed this view to Dr. Wislock, that no high-level official should attempt to deter him or his assistant from filing a Title IX complaint, which was their legal right.

59. Defendants should have (a) stopped the harassment of Dr. Krug; (b) investigated the harassment of Dr. Krug; (c) prevented further harassment of Dr. Krug; and (d) remedied the effects of the harassment against Dr. Krug.

60. Defendants did not do or attempt to do any of these things.

The Retaliatory Investigation of Dr. Krug Begins

61. On January 11, 2018, one week after Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2 made their own Title IX complaints, Dr. Krug learned that defendant PASSHE was investigating him.

62. PASSHE retained the Philadelphia law firm of Ballard Spahr LLP to conduct an “investigation” of Dr. Krug, specifically into “disclosure of personnel matters not of public concern and information protected by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act.”

63. In fact, the “investigation” was simply retaliation against Dr. Krug for assisting JANE DOE NO. 1 in her Title IX complaint against President Hanna, and for Dr. Krug’s own Title IX complaint.

64. As discussed below, Dr. Krug had not violated any provision of law or policy. But the outcome of the “investigation” was predetermined – it was a sham.

65. Dr. Krug was ordered to submit to an interview – under threat of termination from Krause. Dr. Krug submitted to the interview.

66. Dr. Krug asked for copies of whatever law or policies he was suspected of violating. But Dr. Krug was not provided with such information or documents.

67. During the Ballard Spahr “interview” of Dr. Krug, the attorneys did not record the interview. Instead, they took selective notes.

68. Their ultimate report, dated February 21, 2018, inaccurately summarized “witness” statements during interviews. The report is riddled with misstatements and excludes crucial facts. Ballard Spahr attorneys even misquoted Dr. Krug’s own comments during his “interview” in ways that implied fault, when accurate reporting of Dr. Krug’s comments would have clearly shown innocence. This act appears to have been done deliberately to support a pretextual conclusion of fault.

69. The conclusion, which upon information and belief was pre-determined, was that Dr. Krug had violated University policy by breaching confidentiality protections afforded to private personnel information and sexual harassment>Title IX investigations, and that he had violated the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (“FERPA”).

70. In addition to the fact that the “investigation” and its report were highly selective in what they chose to include or exclude from the report, the conclusions are nonsensical.

71. For example, FERPA provides that “the term ‘education records’ means, except as may be provided otherwise in subparagraph (B), those records, files, documents, and other materials which-- (i) contain information directly related to a student; and (ii) are maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a person acting for such agency or institution.”³

72. Dr. Krug did not provide any person with any “records, files, documents or other materials” concerning JANE DOE NO. 1

73. Further, JANE DOE NO. 1 came to Dr. Krug as a full-time employee of the University who was being sexually harassed by her boss. She did not come to Dr. Krug as a student, although she also was a part time student.

74. Thus, there were no educational records, and JANE DOE NO. 1’s relevant capacity was as an employee, not as a student.

75. The conclusion that Dr. Krug somehow violated FERPA is thus absurd on its face.

76. With respect to University confidentiality policy, the policy provides:

Confidentiality and Records. During the complaint process, the University will make every effort to assure confidentiality and protect the privacy rights of the ³ 20 U.S.C. § 1232(g)(a)(4)(A).

Complainant and the Respondent. To the extent possible, the information reported and disclosed in a complaint and related proceedings will be shared only with individuals responsible for addressing the complaint. The University will maintain an appropriate record in the confidential files of the Department of Equity and Accommodations. All documents related to the proceedings will be subject to confidentiality protections provided by law, including the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

77. The complaint process is defined as:

Process: The Department of Equity and Accommodations will communicate and cooperate with the Office of Chief Counsel, PASSHE, to identify the individual or office who will investigate the specific complaint. The investigator will forward a report to the Chancellor for review and final determination by the Chancellor or designee.

78. Thus, while the report was highly selective in what it included and excluded, Dr. Krug could not have violated the confidentiality policy. The persons to whom the report concludes Dr. Krug spoke were not provided with information, even under the report's understanding of the facts, with information about the "complaint process." At most, even under the report's understanding, they were told about a complaint about sexual harassment, but not about the "complaint process."

79. And it bears repeating: the report was wrong and selective in the facts it chose to include or to exclude because, upon information and belief, the result was predetermined.

80. Moreover, JANE DOE NO. 1 had given Dr. Krug permission to discuss her sexual harassment situation.

81. Yet Ballard Spahr chose not to speak with JANE DOE NO. 1

82. Ballard Spahr also chose not to speak with the other important witnesses, including Dr. Krug's father and sister, and the potential donor who had decided not to donate and was part of the focus of the "investigation."

83. Incredibly, Ballard Spahr also opined that, even though Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2 together made a Title IX complaint to the University's Title IX coordinator about retaliation they had jointly suffered, including the rumors that they were engaged in an extramarital affair, that Dr. Krug's discussion with his father about it somehow breached confidentiality.

Defendants and Their Agent Ballard Spahr Were Acutely Aware That They Were Violating Dr. Krug's First Amendment Free Speech Rights

84. All the defendants are state entities or employees of state entities. They all, therefore, acted under color of state law.

85. Because the defendants were all state entities or employees of state entities, they were required not to violate the constitutional rights of others.

86. Employees of a state entity, just like other citizens, have free speech rights protected by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

87. But such governmental employees' First Amendment free speech rights are somewhat limited. Their right to speak on "matters of public concern" is maintained, while matters of purely private concern are not First Amendment protected by governmental employees.

88. Defendants and their agent Ballard Spahr were acutely aware that they were punishing Dr. Krug for exercise of his free speech rights protected by the First Amendment. They revealed their awareness of Dr. Krug's First Amendment free speech rights by repeatedly stating in document after document that they were investigating disclosure of information "not of public concern."

89. In fact, allegations of sexual harassment by a university president are indeed a matter of public concern. Allegations of retaliation for assisting an employee to complain about sexual harassment by a university president are also matters of public concern.

90. By repeating over and over that the matter was “not a matter of public concern,” defendants and their agent Ballard Spahr “doth protest too much.”⁴ Their constant cognizance of matters of public concern and their diligence in falsely stating that Dr. Krug’s speech was not a matter of public concern, betray that they knew they were violating Dr. Krug’s First Amendment rights.

The Disciplinary Proceedings Against Dr. Krug

91. After Ballard Spahr issued its report, the University and PASSHE commenced disciplinary proceedings against Dr. Krug.

92. Dr. Krug had a pending Title IX complaint against Krause for his retaliation against Dr. Krug for assisting JANE DOE NO. 1 in her Title IX complaint.

⁴ William Shakespeare, Hamlet, Act III, Scene II (c. 1600).

93. Krause was one of the “witnesses” interviewed by Ballard Spahr.

94. Nonetheless, despite Krause’s obvious bias and self-interest, the University, PASSHE and Hanna appointed Krause as the “arbiter” of the disciplinary proceeding. The “arbiter” was the ultimate decisionmaker.

95. On March 19, 2018, Dr. Krug formally objected to Krause as the “arbiter,” or decider of Dr. Krug’s fate.

96. Dr. Krug subsequently appealed in writing to PASSHE Interim Chancellor Karen Whitney to disqualify Krause as arbiter on the basis that he had significant interest in finding Dr. Krug culpable.

97. Nonetheless, neither the University, PASSHE, Hanna, or Krause himself, saw fit to appoint a truly neutral arbiter, without any bias and without a pending proceeding by Dr. Krug against him or her.

98. Despite the obvious conflict in Krause judging a person who had a pending proceeding against him, on March 20, 2018, the day after Dr. Krug’s formal objection, PASSHE responded by an email which stated, “no conflict of interest has been identified.”

The Termination of Dr. Krug

99. On March 21, 2018, the day after PASSHE summarily dismissed Dr. Krug's objection to a biased decisionmaker, Krause, individually and on behalf of the University, PASSHE and Hanna, terminated Dr. Krug's employment with the University.

100. The termination of Dr. Krug constituted further retaliation for his assistance provided to JANE DOE NO. 1 in making her Title IX complaint, and also as retaliation for Dr. Krug's own Title IX complaint.

Defendants Created and Spread Other Rumors of Extramarital Affairs

101. In addition to the false rumor that Dr. Krug and JANE DOE NO. 2 were having an extramarital affair, defendants created and spread other false rumors that Dr. Krug was having other extramarital affairs.

102. Defendants spread a rumor that Dr. Krug was having an extramarital affair with another assistant, C.K.

103. Defendants spread a rumor that Dr. Krug was having an extramarital affair with a professor, JANE DOE NO. 3.

104. These rumors, for which defendants were responsible, were all false.

105. The purpose of the rumors was both to retaliate against Dr. Krug for assisting JANE DOE NO. 1 with her sexual harassment complaint and her complaint about financial improprieties, and also to attempt to discredit Dr. Krug.

106. The rumors quickly spread to the community. Dr. Krug's wife and children heard about the rumors.

107. JANE DOE NO. 3's husband heard about the rumor relating to JANE DOE NO. 3. JANE DOE NO. 3's husband sent Dr. Krug a threatening message through social media, which included a threat to show up on Dr. Krug's "doorstep."

The Effect on Dr. Krug

108. As a result of defendants' actions and inactions described above, Dr. Krug suffered both economic and emotional harm.

122. Dr. Krug's speech about retaliation against himself for assisting JANE DOE NO. 1 was a matter of public concern.

(Against Bashar Hanna and James Krause)

124. Plaintiff hereby incorporates all prior paragraphs herein as if set forth at length.

125. Defendants Hanna and Krause conspired with each other and with others to retaliate against Dr. Krug because he exercised his First Amendment free association and free speech rights.

126. As a tenured faculty member, Dr. Krug had a property right in his position within Bloomsburg University.

127. Defendants terminated plaintiff's employment in violation of the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, in that (a) they did not provide Dr. Krug with a hearing, as required by the Fourteenth Amendment and Cleveland Bd. of Educ. v. Loudermill, 470 U.S. 532 (1985), (b) the disciplinary process against Dr. Krug, although not a hearing, had a predetermined outcome, and (c) Hanna appointed Krause as the arbiter, or decisionmaker, despite the fact that Dr. Krug had an ongoing internal Title IX retaliation complaint against Krause.

128. Because due process requires a hearing, because due process requires that an outcome not be predetermined, and because due process requires that a decisionmaker not be biased, the process defendants Hanna and Krause used against Dr. Krug was a sham and violated Dr. Krug's due process rights.

129. Defendants Hanna's and Krause's conduct therefore was a deprivation, under color of state law, of rights guaranteed to the plaintiff under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

130. Defendants Hanna and Krause thus deprived Dr. Krug of property without due process of law.

131. As a result of defendants' violations of Dr. Krug's Constitutional rights, Dr. Krug suffered substantial injuries and damage.

135. Defendants Bloomsburg University and PASSHE are directly responsible for the discrimination and/or retaliation, as they are the “employer” which disciplined Dr. Krug and terminated his employment.

136. Defendants Hanna and Krause, individually and acting for Bloomsburg University and PASSHE, are responsible for the discrimination and/or retaliation, in that they conspired and acted in concert with each other and with Bloomsburg University and PASSHE, to have Mr. Krug disciplined and terminated from his employment.

137. As a result of such unlawful employment practices, plaintiff suffered damages.

147. Plaintiff hereby incorporates all prior paragraphs herein as if set forth at length.

148. Dr. Krug made a complaint that he was being retaliated against for assisting another person in making a complaint of sexual harassment.

149. Defendants Bloomsburg University and PASSHE retaliated against Dr. Krug for making his own complaint that he was being retaliated against for assisting JANE DOE NO. 1 and reporting an unlawful employment practice in violation of Title VII, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a) et seq.

150. As a result of such retaliation, Dr. Krug was damaged.

COUNT NINE
(42 U.S.C. § 1983)
(Against Bashar Hanna and James Krause)

151. Plaintiff hereby incorporates all prior paragraphs herein as if set forth at length.

152. Defendants Hanna and Krause conspired with each other and with others to retaliate against Dr. Krug because he exercised his First Amendment free association and free speech rights.

153. As a tenured faculty member, Dr. Krug had a property right in his position within Bloomsburg University.

154. Defendants terminated plaintiff's employment in violation of the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, in that (a) they did not provide Dr. Krug with a hearing, as required by the Fourteenth Amendment and Cleveland Bd. of Educ. v. Loudermill, 470 U.S. 532 (1985), (b) the disciplinary process against Dr. Krug, although not a hearing, had a predetermined outcome, and (c) Hanna appointed Krause as the arbiter, or decisionmaker, despite the fact that Dr. Krug had an ongoing internal Title IX retaliation complaint against Krause.

155. Because due process requires a hearing, because due process requires that an outcome not be predetermined, and because due process requires that a decisionmaker not be biased, the process defendants Hanna and Krause used against Dr. Krug was a sham and violated Dr. Krug's due process rights.

156. The termination of Dr. Krug, a tenured dean, severely damaged his reputation in both the academic and local community and created a permanent stigma on Dr. Krug's reputation.

157. The combination of the stigma and the deprivation of property constitutes a deprivation of Dr. Krug's liberty.

158. Defendants Hanna's and Krause's conduct therefore was a deprivation, under color of state law, of rights guaranteed to the plaintiff under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

159. Defendants Hanna and Krause thus deprived Dr. Krug of liberty without due process of law.

160. As a result of defendants' violations of Dr. Krug's Constitutional rights, Dr. Krug suffered substantial injuries and damage.

COUNT TEN
(42 U.S.C. § 1983)
(Against James Krause)

161. Plaintiff hereby incorporates all prior paragraphs herein as if set forth at length.

162. Defendants' purported reason for terminating Dr. Krug – that he allegedly violated Bloomsburg University's Confidentiality Policy and/or that he violated FERPA – were pretexts.

163. Not only were such purported rationales pretexts, defendants treated other persons differently.

164. With regard to the Confidentiality Policy, staff member Jane Doe 4 made a complaint to Dr. Wislock, Bloomsburg University's Deputy to the President for Equity, Title IX Coordinator, about problems with her supervisor Dr. Awan.

165. Jane Doe 4 sent an email with information about problems with Dr. Awan to Bloomsburg University's Human Resources Director, Jerry Reed.

166. Jerry Reed, in turn, sent a copy of Jane Doe 4's email to her supervisor Dr. Awan, and in Jerry Reed's own email directly stated that Jane Doe 4 had been in touch with or made a complaint to Dr. Wislock.

167. There was no legitimate purpose in informing Dr. Awan about Jane Doe 4's complaint to Dr. Wislock.

168. Jerry Reed's disclosure was a direct violation of Bloomsburg University's Confidentiality Policy.

169. Defendant Krause was aware of Jerry Reed's direct violation of Bloomsburg University's Confidentiality Policy.

170. Krause did not undertake any investigation or adverse employment consequence for Jerry Reed's violation of the Confidentiality Policy.

171. Regarding FERPA, Jane Doe 4 learned that a supervisory staff member instructed another staff member who was working in a public school to give names of students who were receiving services. The only reason for the disclosure of names was for a research study, and not to provide more or better services to the students. The staff member complied with that directive.

172. Thus, both the supervisor and the other staff member violated FERPA, by directing and providing the disclosure of the identities of students receiving services from Bloomsburg University.

173. Jane Doe 4 informed her supervisor of this FERPA violation. Her supervisor quashed any inquiry into this FERPA violation.

174. While Dr. Krug did not actually violate Bloomsburg University's Confidentiality Policy or FERPA, purported violations of these policies were the stated rationale for defendants' termination of Dr. Krug.

175. Krause was aware of actual violations of the Confidentiality Policy and, upon information and belief, was also aware of violations of FERPA by other Bloomsburg University staff. Yet Krause took no action toward those Bloomsburg University employees.

176. Krause thus treated Dr. Krug differently and worse than others similarly or worse situated, in violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.

177. As a result of Krause's violations of Dr. Krug's Constitutional rights, Dr. Krug suffered substantial injuries and damage.

COUNT ELEVEN
(43 Pa.C.S.A. § 955(d)
(Against all Defendants)

178. Plaintiff hereby incorporates all prior paragraphs herein as if set forth at length.

179. Dr. Krug assisted JANE DOE NO. 1 in making a complaint that she had been sexually harassed.

181. As a result of such retaliation, Dr. Krug was damaged.
